Circuit Court

The circuit court for Fayette county met here in regular session Monday of this week, in regular November session, it being the fourth Monday of the month. Judge R. B. Baptist of Covington is presiding, after an absence a year on account of illness and he was taken sick with influenza while here a year ago and had a severe case, with a relapse later in the winter, and spent several months in Arizona before finally recovering. He says he is entirely well now and he looks it, to the great pleasure of his friends in this county.

Sheriff Ross, Clerk Wetzler and Attorney General Abernethy are at their respective posts, and J. C. Kelly of Oakland is acting Grand Jury Officer, J. N. Clay, Regular Grand Jury Foreman, was detained at his home in Oakland and Judge Baptist appointed W. G. Shelton as Foreman for the present term.

The court had a very uneventful day Monday, with a light civil docket which was soon disposed of and the court adjourned till Wednesday morning when the criminal docket was taken up. At this writing, Wednesday, it could not be learned whether adjournment would be taken for Thursday or not, but it has generally been done.

The docket is not a lengthy one, but Clerk S. A. Wetzler informs The Falcon that it may not be completed by the end of the present week.

Following is the grand jury for the present term: W. G. Shelton, Foreman, J. B. Sullivan, Johnnie Andrews, Murray McFadden, Loyd Devoar, Harris Goff, W. T. Terry, J. L. Glover, John Pulliam, Hilary Hazelwood, J. P. Williams, Emmett Wade, Will Houston, Officer, J. C. Kelly.

Only a Cold

Are you ill? It is often answered—"Oh! it's only a cold," as if a cold was a matter of little consequence, but people are beginning to learn that a common cold is a matter not to be trifled with, that some of the most serious diseases start with a cold. As soon as the first indication of a cold appears take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Remember that the sooner you get rid of your cold the less the danger, and this remedy will help you to throw it off.

Irregular bowel movement leads to chronic constipation and a constipated habit fills the system with impurities. HERBINE is a great bowel regulator. It purifies the system, vitalizes the blood and puts the digestive organs in fine vigorous condition.

The City Man and His Gun

The hunting season is with us and along with it comes the man and boy with a gun who disregard the rights of individuals, the laws of the state and the common rules of courtesy and decency. Fences are broken down, private property is invaded and valuable livestock often killed, or wounded, or so badly frightened that they often do injury to themselves. All this is done in the name of Sportsmanship. For the sake of murdering a few birds, the most of which are of inestimable value to the farmer as destroyers of insects and weeds, a class of alleged sportsmen accept for themselves the right to ruthlessly slaughter birds of very little or doubtful value to themselves. In accomplishing their purpose, the property of others is destroyed without thought or consideration.

Charges of "Hunting on enclosed land without permission," were recently filed against J. A. McConnell by H. W. Ferguson, a Dallas county farmer. Mr. Ferguson took the number of the automobile and in that way secured the name of the owner. The law provides it is a misdemeanor to hunt in an enclosure of less than 2,000 acres without the owner's permission. The statute is an old one and there is no excuse for any person old enough to carry a gun to disregard it. Mr. Ferguson is to be congratulated on his promptness in filing charges for the invasion of his farm. Other farmers should act with equal promptness in order that this breed of gunmen will quickly learn that it is to their advantage to stay within the limits as defined by law.

One of the Falcon's good farmer friends handed us the above clipping and asked us to publish it for him.

SURGEONS agree that in cases of Cuts, Burns, and Bruises, and Wounds the FIRST TREATMENT is most important. When an EFFICIENT antiseptic is applied promptly, there is no danger of infection and the wound begins to heal at once. For use on man or beast, BOROZONE is the IDEAL ANTI-SEPTIC and HEALING AGENT. Buy it now and be ready for an emergency. Sold by Price Drug Co.

James Wason Says, "I'll Never Forget When Father's Hog Go Choleas"

"One morning he found 20 hogs dead and several sick. He called in the Vet, who after dissecting a rat caught on the premises, decided that the rodents had conveyed germs. Since then I am never without RAT-SNAP. It's the surest, quickest rat destroyer I know." Three sizes, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold and guaranteed by G. W. Locke, Rhea Drug Co. and W. S. Shinsalt.

Club Boys and Girls May Have State Camp

After two seasons of successful county camps for club boys and girls in Tennessee, the Division of Extension is now considering the matter of establishing a State camp next season. The County camps are held during mid-summer after the rush of farm work has subsided, and have proved to be popular among club members as a period of vacation and brief course of instruction on the club work.

At a recent meeting of the District agents it was suggested that a state camp be held at University of Tennessee next summer provided suitable arrangements can be made.

Every county in the State employing county agents and where clubs are organized should be represented with one or more delegates from both boys and girls clubs.

President Morgan has consented to the camp being held on the University campus and it was suggested that the members of the girls clubs occupy the dormitories during the camp. There is only one week, however, in which the dormitories will be vacant and that is the first week in September. If this is rather late in the summer for holding the camp on account of the public schools of the State having opened, some other suitable place will be provided for taking care of the girls. The boys will be placed in comfortable tents and given a real touch of camp life.

The matter of working out plans for a State camp in its relation to the various county clubs is on the program to be fully discussed at the county agents conference in Knoxville November 27th. It is believed that plans will be arranged whereby a State camp can be made a big asset to the clubs in every county.

If any should wonder what will be the nature of the activities at a State camp and what might be accomplished, it should be stated that one object will be to give club members a broader vision of club work in Tennessee and to unify their efforts. The delegates will get valuable personal training and inspiration and will be in position to carry home to their county and community clubs, the spirit obtained from spending a week with the leading club members from various counties in Tennessee. A State camp also teaches the value of college and University training for boys and girls in whatever profession they might wish to enter in later. They will be given access to the facilities of the University for their work during the week and will get an idea of what it means to prepare for higher education.

Interesting stories have occurred in those states where state camps are held showing where boys and girls who had never been outside their home counties, after attending a State camp returned later as regular students. Anything that stands for higher education of farm boys and girls can and will be supported in Tennessee.

WOMEN'S WOES

Somerville Women are Finding Relief at Last

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Keeping the kidneys well has spared thousands of women much misery. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. Chas. Starks, Somerville, says: "Some years ago I had a very severe attack of kidney complaint. My back nearly killed me. It ached night and day and such a thing as doing my housework was out of question. I had sick headaches, and would have to go and lie down. Flashes of light would appear before my eyes, too. A friend of mine advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and I did. Doan's completely cured me and I have never had any return symptoms of kidney trouble since."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Starks had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.

Instructions for Culling Poultry

One of the greatest needs for the improvement of farm poultry and profits from same in Tennessee is a more general practice of culling out the non-layers, say specialists of the Division of Extension, University of Tennessee. They have suggested the following rules for culling the flock which poultry raisers will find it to their advantage to follow:

1. Market those [which have been slow to feather or seem to lack vitality.
2. Keep the pullets which mature quickly and start laying first. Those which start laying when less than 200 days old will be the best layers if they have the right care.
3. Keep the late moulters.
4. Keep the birds with rather large, plump combs and wattles.
5. Hens with pale vents, pale beaks and pale legs have been good layers.
6. The skin of the best layers should be rather loose and flabby on the abdomen between the vent and the breast bone.
7. The pelvic bones must be thin, straight, flexible and wide apart.
8. Market the hens which are baggy behind and which have a heavy, fat thick abdomen which hangs down below the point of the breast bone.
9. Keep the hustlers and heavy eaters that go to bed late and with full crops.
10. Birds that have long toe nail that show no sign of being workers are usually unprofitable.
11. If a bird meets the above requirements, it should have a broad back, long body, be stoutly built and in good flesh.
12. If a bird is not moulting and still has a small dried up comb covered with a sort of whitish substance, or if a bird has thick or crooked pelvic bones which will be found on each side of the vent and above the point of the breast bone she is always a money loser.

When a poultryman has made a careful selection as above, he then has a foundation on which to build.

No man or woman can afford to feed a flock of non-producers at the present prices of high feed, but the good layers will make more profit than in any previous year.

"95 of Every $100 for Oil Stocks Is Lost"

IF OUR people ever can get high prices for their cotton again, they will probably be less willing to let all kinds of slick-tongued promoters take their surplus money from them. Readers who have money to invest this fall will do well to ponder the following item sent out by the United States Treasury Department.

Production of oil is one of the great fuel requirements of the world today. But fake oil stocks have hit the firm under hundreds of thousands of bank accounts. Nathan Adams, vice president of one of the largest banks of Dallas, Texas, in touch with every ramification of the great Texas oil industry, estimates that out of every $100 invested in oil stocks, $95 is lost.

Oil stock and mining stocks are probably the most risky of all investments, but it is a safe rule to invest in no company that sends traveling agents up and down the country in search of buyers for its stocks. Really high-class investments are not sold this way.

Companies whose stock and bonds are publicly advertised by long established and well-known financial institutions put themselves on record in black and white as to their assets, liabilities, and prospects. Consequently they may be held accountable for their statements. Stocks peddled about by all kinds of traveling salesmen, on the strength of wild and extravagant oral promises which are never put in writing—and really would be worth nothing if they were put in black and white by irresponsible agents who are here today and gone tomorrow.

Invest first of all in machinery, live stock, paint, fencing, buildings and home conveniences for your own farm. Then invest your surplus only in reliable industrial stocks and bonds—never in any sort of oil stock or mining stock, nor in any kind of stock peddled about over the country by wandering agents. Progressive Farmer.

U.T. Announces Short Course for Farm Men and Women Jan. 3 to 29

On January 3 to 29, inclusive, there will be conducted under the direction of the College of Agriculture of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, a four weeks course in agriculture, home economics and related subjects. These courses are of a very practical nature and are designed for persons who by circumstances cannot take advantage of the regular four-year course in these subjects offered by the College.

There will be four weeks of study and practical work for farmers and housekeepers and the course in home economics will also be of value to those interested in home demonstration work, especially women who contemplate becoming county home demonstration agents. No entrance requirements or fees will be charged and the courses are open to every resident of Tennessee over 16 years of age. Something like $60. will cover the entire expense of railroad fare, board, etc., for the short course. This is a wonderful opportunity for every farm man and woman who would farm better and make the rural home better.

The Short course in Agriculture embraces four important phases of farming: general farming, animal husbandry, dairying and horticulture. These courses give practical instructions by means of lectures, laboratory and field exercises. For anyone planning to attend more than one year it is advisable to take general farming the first year and specialize in one of the other groups during the second year. However, any one of the four courses may be taken the first year. Some few supplies, the cost of which are very small will be needed by the students taking the courses.

The purpose of the home economics courses is to give the housewife an opportunity to study practical farm-home problems that confront her daily; to aid her in simplifying her work thru a more thorough knowledge of labor saving devices and better systematized work. Also to offer home demonstration agents and women possessing ability of leadership, especially those who have had experience in teaching and handling farm-home problems, an opportunity to prepare for county home demonstration work. Instructions, cooking, practical home problems, nutrition, sewing study of poultry, dairying, gardening, health, household furnishing, auto mechanics and physical training will make up the course for the women.

For information and pamphlets those interested in the agricultural courses should send requests to the College of Agriculture and those interested in the home economics courses should write to Tennessee Hall, University of Tennessee.
